Job Description:

1.) Assistant Professors -- Reporting to the Chair of the Department of Writing and Linguistics, the successful candidates will teach courses in the Department's Bachelor of Arts in Writing and Linguistics program, as well as first-year writing.

These faculty members will provide the Department with leadership in the area of community-based learning and writing across the curriculum (WAC) and the ideal candidates will have experience and education in both areas.

These faculty members will assist the Department in developing stronger ties to departments and programs across the Georgia Southern campus, as well as to local community groups and organizations through internships, grants and service projects.

The typical teaching load for tenured and tenure-track faculty is seven, three-hour courses per year (4/3 or 3/4 load).

These positions are 9-month appointments and salaries are competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Required Qualifications:

• Terminal degree (Ph.D. or MFA) suited to one of the Department's four concentrations (Linguistics,
