Institution: Shanghai Jiao Tong University, University of Michigan-Shanghai Jiao Tong University Joint Institute (UM-SJTU JI)

Location: Shanghai

Department: University of Michigan-Shanghai Jiao Tong University Joint Institute

Rank: This is a teaching-track position with ranks ranging from Assistant Teaching Professor to Teaching Professor depending on background and experience

Deadline: Open until filled.

Start Date: Spring 2025

Website: <http://ji.sjtu.edu.cn/>

The Academic Writing and Humanities departments at UM-SJTU JI, located in Shanghai, China invites applications for full-time positions in Academic Writing and Intellectual Breadth.

The positions offer an exciting opportunity to teach some of the highest-achieving students in China while living in Shanghai, a cosmopolitan, world-class metropolis. The successful candidates will contribute directly to the continuing development of a young program in collaboration with an energetic and diverse community of faculty members.

The UM-SJTU JI is an English-based higher education institute founded in 2006, in collaboration between the University of Michigan and Shanghai Jiao Tong University. This partnership commits fully to developing JI as a world-class institute for engineering education. Our student body consists of mostly Chinese nationals, with a sizeable population of international students from across the globe. In 2014, JI was the first Chinese institution to win the prestigious Andrew Heiskell Award for Innovation in International Education—one of the highest honors in international higher education. In a short time, JI has become an exemplary model of Sino-American educational collaboration, bringing together two world-class institutes. University of Michigan (#44 in QS world rankings) and Shanghai Jiao Tong University (#45 in QS world rankings) are both world class universities that have collaborated to create a unique and prestigious joint institute in Shanghai.

First-Year Academic Writing (AW) courses are sequenced over the Fall and Spring trimesters and aim to teach students the principles, conventions, and styles of Academic Writing. Essay assignments focus on critical thinking skills, the multi-draft writing process, and academic research across a variety of genres and disciplines. The LAD values diversity and innovation, and individual lecturers are encouraged to develop their own courses based on subjects and texts within their own fields of research.

Intellectual Breadth (IB) courses encompass a variety of non-engineering disciplines including Philosophy, Social Sciences, Literature, History, and Creative Writing. This coursework is equivalent to what is often called “general education” and it serves a critical function in broadening the intellectual horizons of our high-achieving students.

Jl operates on a trimester schedule, and successful candidates are expected to teach six courses a year. The anticipated teaching ratio for this position is 4 AW and 2 IB courses, two courses per trimester, scheduled approximately as follows:

A 13-week Fall trimester, mid-September to early December

A 10-week, accelerated Spring trimester, late-February to late-April

A 14-week Summer trimester, mid-May to early August

Due to the irregularity of Chinese and American holidays, JI’s Winter vacation lasts from early December to late-February, and summer vacation lasts from early August to mid-September.

Please note that SJTU’s hiring process is a rather long timeline and candidates should set their expectations and plan accordingly.

Responsibilities

- Teach First-Year Academic Writing courses
- Teach Intellectual Breadth courses according to faculty qualifications and interest and according to institutional needs
- Prepare and conduct lectures, design homework, and supervise examinations
- Maintain office hours
- Guide Teaching Assistants
