population in an inclusive, student-centered environment. As an interdisciplinary field, Ethnic Studies will work closely with other departments to assist students in reaching their academic goals. This broad discipline will include studies in African-American, Black, Africana, Latina/o/x, Chicana/o/x, Asian-American, Native American, or American Indian cultures and communities to foster and expand a general understanding of these groups as well as studies of race, class, gender, ethnicity and marginalization and resistance in the United States. The courses will give students the opportunity to develop competence in an understanding of history, cultures and current issues affecting marginalized communities.

The successful applicant will help develop our newly created Ethnic Studies Department, program and degree(s).

POSITION DUTIES:

In addition to the representative duties below, the specific position is also responsible for:

1. Teaching a broad range of courses within the discipline, including Introduction to Ethnic Studies and courses in specialized fields of Ethnic Studies, such as African American Studies, Chicana/o/x Studies, Native American Studies, and Asian American Studies.
2. Developing curricula in Ethnic Studies to meet the new California State University Area F, University of California IGETC Area 7, and California Community Colleges General Education requirements.
3. Contributing to the development of the major and degree program in Ethnic Studies, including the potential development of ETHS for Educators curricula.
4. Working collaboratively with faculty colleagues in other disciplines on local Ethnic Studies course requirements.
