We are looking for applicants who reflect California's diversity and want to be part of an inclusive, equity-focused community that views education as a matter of social justice. Please consider whether your values align with our Guiding Values and Principles, Principles of Community, and Strategic Plan.

At UC Berkeley, we believe that learning is a fundamental part of working, and provide space for supportive colleague communities via numerous employee resource groups (staff organizations). Our goal is for everyone on the Berkeley campus to feel supported and equipped to realize their full potential. We actively support this by providing all of our full-time staff employees with at least 80 hours (10 days) of paid time per year to engage in professional development activities. Find out more about how you can grow your career at UC Berkeley.

Departmental Overview

The School of Journalism at UC Berkeley is one of the top journalism programs in the United States and is home to the groundbreaking California Local News Fellowship program, the largest publicly-funded journalism program in the country.

The School offers a two-year Master of Journalism degree to an enrollment of about 120 students at a time and a journalism minor serving another 300 undergraduates. The school's emphasis is on mastering a wide variety of communication techniques while learning the highest standards of responsible and enterprising journalism. There are approximately 15 senate and adjunct faculty members in the School and over 20 working journalists who serve as lecturers. The School employs approximately 30 career staff members who manage the academic functions of the School as well as ancillary programs.

Position Summary

The Newsroom Cohort Manager will join our small program team, focused on supporting early-career journalists and their local newsrooms. The position will provide editing support to fellows and build and maintain relationships with their newsroom editors. With the program team, the Newsroom Cohort Manager will play a significant role in selecting future fellows and newsrooms, ensuring an extraordinary fellowship experience, leading our robust training and mentoring program, and ensuring effective partnership with host news outlets throughout the state.
