The School of Humanities (SoH) at NTU Singapore combines the highest quality research and teaching with practical engagement with the world. The School is committed to disciplinary excellence and interdisciplinary innovation, with a particular focus on Digital Humanities, Medical Humanities, Environmental Humanities and the study of Global Asia. It is part of NTU Singapore's College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences (CoHASS), whose students and scholars actively collaborate in fields ranging from philosophy to design, to understand how people in Asia and beyond act in and make sense of a rapidly-changing, technological world. CoHASS is Asia's leading centre for innovative, interdisciplinary Humanities, Arts and Social Science research.

The Language and Communication Centre (LCC) in SoH offers communication courses to undergraduate and graduate students across the university, particularly in the disciplines of engineering, the humanities, sciences, and social sciences.

The School of Humanities seeks to fill one Lecturer position in LCC. Candidates who have the following qualifications are encouraged to apply:

- PhD in Applied Linguistics, English for Academic Purposes, Linguistics, Education, Literature, or Rhetoric and Composition
- Degrees in the Sciences and Engineering will be considered if the candidate can show evidence of research in disciplinary communication skills
- Experience in teaching academic and/or discipline-specific writing
- Interest in new media and digital literacy is a plus
- An active research agenda

Successful candidates will be expected to teach academic writing and communication skills, and to conduct research.

The School of Humanities seeks a diverse and inclusive workforce and is committed to equal opportunity. We welcome applications from all and recruit on the basis of merit, regardless of age,
