Lecturer in Civic, Liberal, and Global Education (three years, multiple positions)

The Office of the Vice Provost for Undergraduate Education (VPUE) at Stanford University is now accepting applications for three-year teaching lecturer positions in the Civic, Liberal, and Global Education (COLLEGE) first-year requirement program. COLLEGE courses support first-year students in making a successful academic and personal transition to college-level learning while creating a shared intellectual experience for the first-year class. The fall and winter quarter seminars are taught through a single shared syllabus which invites students to examine the purpose of college and their own role in society and the world. In the spring, students can choose between 8 and 10 courses that all offer a global perspective.

We seek candidates to teach in all three quarters of COLLEGE from all fields in the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, and STEM, and especially value interdisciplinary scholarship and teaching,, and fostering an inclusive academic environment. To be eligible for a COLLEGE lectureship, a candidate must have completed all departmental and institutional requirements for their degree, no earlier than January 1, 2020, and no later than July 1, 2026.

We expect to hire 6-7 lecturers for the three-year period from August 1, 2026 to July 31, 2029. Lecturers receive an initial two-year contract and a final one-year contract. COLLEGE Lecturers are full-time academic staff and receive all standard Stanford employee benefits including health insurance. The salary will be at least $90,600 (paid over 12 months). Lecturers have access to $2,000 each year to support research expenses.

Lecturers teach in-person, typically teaching 2 sections (each ~17 students) of the same course each quarter. Lecturers will teach "Why College?" in the autumn; "Citizenship in the 21st Century" in the winter; and one of several Global Perspectives courses in the spring. All courses are team-taught, based on a shared syllabus, and teaching in the COLLEGE lectureship is highly collaborative, with weekly teaching team meetings, and regular pedagogy workshops. The lectureship also encourages a research community among lecturers, and supports professional development through funding, workshops, and individual coaching. See the Lecturers section of our website for more information.

Applications will close February 3, 2026, and must be submitted through Interfolio. Offers of employment are made contingent upon the successful completion of a background check and contingent upon completion of the PhD if not yet earned.

COLLEGE Lectureship Info Session

We will host a Zoom information session on Wednesday, January 7 from 3:30pm to 4:30pm (Pacific time). We will talk about the program in Civic, Liberal, and Global Education, and some current lecturers will share their experience with Q&A in the second half of the hour.
